STATEMENT OF ISSUES TO BE DECIDED

This motion raises the following issues:

1. Whether Waymo must arbitrate its trade secret misappropriation and California UCL claims against Defendants under 9 U.S.C. § 4; and,
2. Whether those claims should be stayed under 9 U.S.C. § 3 pending the outcome of the arbitration, while the remaining claims proceed in this Court.

MEMORANDUM OF POINTS AND AUTHORITIES

I. INTRODUCTION

[REDACTED]

[REDACTED]

[REDACTED]

[REDACTED]

At the heart of Plaintiff’s trade secret claims are detailed allegations of purported misconduct among Defendants and Levandowski, a “former manager in Waymo’s self-driving car project,” who is “now leading the same effort for Uber.” (Am. Compl. ¶ 4, ECF No. 23.) According to Waymo, Levandowski, while employed at Waymo, engaged in an elaborate scheme to improperly obtain Waymo’s trade secrets, and then to help Defendants “leverage[the] stolen information to shortcut the process” of “developing their own technology” in the driverless car space. (Id. ¶ 10.) Waymo alleges “Uber jump-started its self-driving car efforts by using Waymo trade secrets stolen by Anthony Levandowski” while he was employed by Waymo. (Mot. Prelim. Inj. at 1, ECF No. 24.)

Vital to Waymo’s complaint is its contention that Levandowski was able to misappropriate Waymo’s information by virtue of his job at Waymo. (See Am. Compl. ¶¶ 41–

¹ In December 2016, Google spun off its driverless car group as a subsidiary of Google’s parent company Alphabet. (See Mot. Prelim. Inj. at 3, ECF No. 24, and Jaffe Decl. Exs. 24–25 & 31–32, ECF Nos. 27-4, 27-5, 27-11, 27-12.) As Plaintiff does in its amended complaint and in its preliminary injunction motion, Defendants likewise use the name “Waymo” to refer to Google’s “self-driving car project from its inception in 2009 to the present.” (Am. Compl. at 7 n.2; Mot. Prelim. Inj. at 3 n.2.)

1 49.)² The amended complaint, which mentions Levandowski by name 35 times, describes how he
2 allegedly laid the foundation for Defendants to obtain Waymo’s intellectual property. (Id. ¶¶ 41–
3 54.) Nonetheless, Waymo does not name Levandowski as a defendant, [REDACTED]
4 [REDACTED]. The reason is plain: through artful pleading,
5 Waymo hopes to avoid arbitrating its trade secret and UCL claims, aiming instead to litigate them
6 here. Waymo’s contracts, however, require that the claims be arbitrated. As a result, Defendants
7 have been forced to bring this motion [REDACTED]
8 [REDACTED]

9 In this motion, Defendants seek to hold Waymo to its promise to arbitrate. Waymo and 10 Levandowski entered into broad arbitration agreements that reach the misappropriation and unfair
11 competition claims in this case. Principles of equitable estoppel bar Waymo from avoiding its 12 arbitration obligations. In this case, Waymo is alleging interdependent and concerted misconduct
13 between Levandowski and Defendants that arises out of Levandowski’s [REDACTED]
14 [REDACTED]
15 [REDACTED]
16 [REDACTED]
17 [REDACTED], Defendants are entitled to enforce Waymo’s
18 agreement to arbitrate. See Kramer v. Toyota Motor Corp., 705 F.3d 1122, 1128 (9th Cir. 2013).

19 [REDACTED]
20 [REDACTED]
21 [REDACTED]
22 [REDACTED]
23 [REDACTED]
24 [REDACTED] In the face of such a broad arbitration agreement, it is irrelevant that Defendants are 25 not signatories to the arbitration agreements. [REDACTED]

26 _____
27 ² (See also Mot. Prelim. Inj. at 1 (“Desperate to catch up with Waymo — by any means
28 necessary — Uber jump-started its self-driving car efforts by using Waymo trade secrets stolen by Anthony Levandowski, a former Waymo employee.”).)

1 [REDACTED] The Court should
2 hold Waymo to its end of the bargain.

3 The precepts of equitable estoppel, coupled with the broad [REDACTED] arbitration
4 provisions Waymo agreed to, require that Waymo be compelled to arbitrate its trade secret and 5 UCL claims under 9 U.S.C. § 4. Those claims should be stayed under 9 U.S.C. § 3, pending the 6 arbitration’s outcome, while the remaining patent claims proceed. [REDACTED]

10 A. Mr. Levandowski’s Employment with Waymo

11 Mr. Levandowski began his career at Waymo in April 2007 as an engineer, ultimately 12 working in the division responsible for developing Waymo driverless cars and related technology.
13 In 2011, Waymo promoted Levandowski to a managerial position, where he led a team of 14 Waymo engineers who developed LiDAR technology for Waymo’s self-driving car project. (See 15 González Decl. ¶ 3, Ex. 1, p. 10 [REDACTED].)

16 1. The contracts

17 During the course of his Waymo employment, Mr. Levandowski entered into two “At-18 Will Employment, Confidential Information, Invention Assignment and Arbitration”
19 Agreements—one in 2009 and another in 2012. (González Decl. ¶ 3, Ex. 1, p. 46 and p. 34.)³

B. Waymo’s Allegations in this Lawsuit

Waymo’s amended complaint mentions Levandowski by name 35 times, and Waymo’s motion for a preliminary injunction names him 32 times. His alleged conduct as a Waymo employee is the core for Waymo’s trade secret and UCL claims. Waymo contends that Levandowski, just before departing Google, accessed “Waymo’s highly confidential design server” and then “downloaded [sic] over 14,000 proprietary files from that server,” including “9.7 GBs of sensitive, secret, and valuable internal Waymo information.” (Am. Compl. ¶¶ 43–44.)⁶ According to Waymo, “2 GBs of the download related to Waymo’s LiDAR technology,” including “confidential specifications for each version of every generation of Waymo’s LiDAR circuit boards.” (Id. ¶ 44.) Waymo says Levandowski also “used his Waymo credentials and security clearances to download additional confidential Waymo documents.” (Id. ¶ 47.)

“After downloading all of this confidential information regarding Waymo’s LiDAR systems and other technology and while still a Waymo employee,” Waymo claims, “Mr. Levandowski attended meetings with high-level executives at Uber’s headquarters in San Francisco on January 14, 2016.” (Id. ¶ 48, emphasis added.) The implication is that Defendants were able to spur their own supposedly lagging self-driving car projects “by using Waymo trade secrets stolen by Anthony Levandowski.” (Mot. Prelim. Inj. at 1.)

[REDACTED]

⁶ Waymo’s preliminary injunction motion similarly alleges that Levandowski “unlawfully” took “14,000+” documents. (Mot. Prelim. Inj. at 2.)

7 III. THE LEGAL STANDARD

8 The Federal Arbitration Act (FAA) reflects a liberal federal policy favoring arbitration
9 and requires rigorous enforcement of arbitration agreements.⁷ See AT&T Mobility LLC v.
10 Concepcion, 563 U.S. 333, 339 (2011) (holding that “courts must place arbitration agreements on 11 an equal footing with other contracts”). The Court’s role in determining whether a dispute is 12 arbitrable is “limited to determining (1) whether a valid agreement to arbitrate exists⁸ and, if it
13 does, (2) whether the agreement encompasses the dispute at issue.” Chiron Corp. v. Ortho
14 Diagnostic Sys., Inc., 207 F.3d 1126, 1130 (9th Cir. 2000); see also PacifiCare Health Sys.,
15 Inc. v. Book, 538 U.S. 401, 407 n.2 (2003); Howsam v. Dean Witter Reynolds, Inc., 537 U.S. 79, 16 83–84 (2002). “If the response is affirmative on both counts, then the Act requires the court to 17 enforce the arbitration agreement in accordance with its terms.” Chiron Corp., 207 F.3d at 1130.

18 IV. ARGUMENT

19 A. Equitable Estoppel Prevents Plaintiff from Circumventing [REDACTED]

20 [REDACTED]
21 The principles of equitable estoppel compel Waymo to arbitrate its trade secret and UCL
22 claims, because Waymo alleges substantially interdependent and concerted misconduct among

23 _____
24 ⁷ [REDACTED]
25 [REDACTED] see also Moses H. Cone Mem’l Hosp. v. Mercury
26 Constr. Corp., 460 U.S. 1, 24–25 (1983) (holding that federal substantive law of arbitrability generally applies to arbitration agreements that come within the coverage of the FAA).

27 ⁸ There should be no dispute concerning the validity of the arbitration agreements
28 themselves in view of Waymo’s [REDACTED]

1 Levandowski—a signatory—and the non-signatory Defendants, and that conduct is founded in or
2 intimately connected with Waymo’s agreement to arbitrate its disputes with Levandowski.⁹

3 “Equitable estoppel precludes a party from claiming the benefits of a contract while 4 simultaneously attempting to avoid the burdens that contract imposes.” Kramer v. Toyota Motor
5 Corp., 705 F.3d 1122, 1128 (9th Cir. 2013) (citing Comer v. Micor, Inc., 436 F.3d 1098, 1101
6 (9th Cir. 2006)). Under California law, when a non-signatory seeks to enforce an arbitration 7 clause, equitable estoppel applies “when the signatory alleges substantially interdependent and 8 concerted misconduct by the nonsignatory and another signatory and “the allegations of 9 interdependent misconduct [are] founded in or intimately connected with the obligations of the 10 underlying agreement.” Kramer, 705 F.3d at 1128–29.

11 1. Waymo alleges substantially interdependent and concerted misconduct
12 between Levandowski and Defendants that is intimately connected
13 with the obligations in Levandowski’s underlying contracts.

14 Where, as here, a non-signatory seeks to compel a signatory to arbitrate, equitable 15 estoppel may operate “to protect the vitality of arbitration agreements and federal arbitration
16 policy.” Torbit, Inc. v. Datanyze, Inc., No. 5:12-CV-05889-EJD, 2013 WL 572613, at *4 (N.D.
17 Cal. Feb. 13, 2013) (quoting Mundi v. Union Sec. Life Ins. Co., 555 F.3d 1042, 1045 (9th Cir.
18 2009); see also Grigson v. Creative Artists Agency, LLC, 210 F.3d 524, 528 (5th Cir. 2000)).
19 Equitable estoppel applies when the signatory alleges substantially interdependent and concerted 20 misconduct “founded in or intimately connected with the obligations of the underlying 21 agreement.” Goldman v. KPMG LLP, 92 Cal. Rptr. 3d 534, 541 (2009). The “allegations of

22 ⁹ There is no reasonable dispute that Waymo is a signatory to the 2009 and 2012
23 Employment Agreements. Google spun Waymo off just this past December. (Am. Compl. ¶ 25 24 (“In 2016, Google’s self-driving car program became Waymo, a stand-alone company operating 25 alongside Google and other technology companies under the umbrella of Alphabet Inc.”).)
26 Indeed, Waymo—like Google—“is a subsidiary of Alphabet Inc. . . .” (Id. ¶ 12; see also Mot.
27 Prelim. Inj. at 3, ECF No. 24, and Jaffe Declaration Exs. 24-25 & 31-32, ECF Nos. 27-4, 27-5, 28 27-11, 27-12.)

(2009 Empl. Agmt. at 1, Gonzalez Decl. Ex. 1, p. 46; 2012 Empl. Agmt. at 1, Ex. 1, p.
34.) Waymo’s own amended complaint refers to Levandowski as “a Waymo employee.” (Am.
Compl. ¶ 42.)

1 collusive behavior must also establish that the plaintiff’s claims against the nonsignatory are 2 intimately founded in and intertwined with the obligations imposed by the [contract containing 3 the arbitration clause].” Id. at 545 (internal quotation marks omitted; alteration in original).

4 Here, Waymo alleges throughout its amended complaint and in its motion for preliminary
 5 injunction that Defendants and Levandowski, through concerted conduct among them,
 6 misappropriated Waymo’s trade secrets—and that Levandowski was able to accomplish the theft
 7 by virtue of his job at Waymo by, for example, using “his Waymo credentials and security
 8 clearances to download additional confidential Waymo documents.” (Am. Compl. ¶ 47; see also 9 id. ¶¶ 4–6, 41–49, 55–58, 67, 80.) Waymo’s complaint accuses Levandowski of “downloading
 10 all of this confidential information regarding Waymo’s LiDAR systems and other technology . . .
 11 while still a Waymo employee.” (Id. ¶ 48, emphasis added.)

12 Waymo’s allegations, and its claims against Defendants, make one thing clear: They are 13 all inextricably bound up with Levandowski’s employment relationship, [REDACTED]

14 [REDACTED]
 15 [REDACTED] Going well beyond mere allegations of concerted misconduct
 16 alone, Waymo plainly asserts instances of interdependent collusion that Levandowski allegedly 17 engaged in while he worked for Waymo and that, if true, [REDACTED]
 18 [REDACTED] (See, e.g., Am. Compl. ¶¶ 72, 82; Droz Decl. ISO Mot. Prelim.
 19 Inj. ¶ 30, ECF No. 24-3.) In other words, Waymo’s allegations of concerted misconduct “are 20 intimately founded in and intertwined with the obligations imposed by the [contract[s] containing 21 the arbitration clause].” Goldman, 92 Cal. Rptr. 3d at 545 (internal quotation omitted). There is
 22 no way to evaluate the claims against Defendants without also considering the extent and nature
 23 of the wrongful acts Levandowski supposedly committed, in alleged concert with Defendants,
 24 while he was working for Waymo.

25 The crux of Waymo’s allegations is that Levandowski leveraged his employment at 26 Waymo—and his concomitant access to Waymo’s trade secrets—to misappropriate those secrets
 27 and to give them to the Defendants [REDACTED] Waymo even
 28 refers to the employment agreements Levandowski signed, which limited the use of confidential

1 information and required arbitration.¹⁰ Under these circumstances, the concerted conduct
2 Waymo alleges is intertwined with the [REDACTED]

3 [REDACTED] Those contracts require arbitration of the trade secret and UCL claims.

4 2. Waymo should not be allowed to avoid arbitration by pleading around
5 its arbitration requirement.

6 The Court should prohibit Waymo from using artful pleading to avoid its arbitration
7 obligation. Waymo brings three separate but related actions: [REDACTED]

8 [REDACTED] (González Decl. ¶¶ 3–4.) In the 9 lawsuit, despite the myriad allegations about Levandowski’s serious misconduct while a Waymo
10 employee, Waymo omits him as a named defendant. [REDACTED]

11 [REDACTED]
12 [REDACTED]
13 [REDACTED]
14 [REDACTED]
15 Waymo’s purpose for proceeding in this curious manner seems clear: through artful pleading, it
16 hopes to avoid arbitrating the misappropriation and UCL claims at all costs. [REDACTED]

17 [REDACTED]
18 [REDACTED]
19 [REDACTED]
20
21
22
24 ¹⁰ Waymo notes that it “requires all employees, contractors, consultants, vendors, and 25 manufacturers to sign confidentiality agreements before any confidential or proprietary trade
26 secret information is disclosed to them.” (Am. Compl. ¶¶ 72, 82; Mot. Prelim. Inj. at 5.) In a
27 declaration Waymo submitted in support of its preliminary injunction motion, Waymo refers 28 more specifically—though still vaguely—to Levandowski’s written agreement: “As a condition of employment, I understand Waymo requires all employees—including members of the LiDAR team who have left Waymo to work for Defendants—to enter into written agreements to maintain the confidentiality of proprietary and trade secret information, and not to misuse such information.” (Droz Decl. ISO Mot. Prelim. Inj. ¶ 30, ECF No. 24-3, emphasis added.)

B. The Broad Arbitration Clauses Require Waymo to Arbitrate Its Trade Secret and UCL Claims.

[REDACTED]

[REDACTED]

[REDACTED] See Prima Paint Corp. v. Flood & Conklin Mfg. Co., 388 U.S. 395, 398 (1967) (labeling as “broad” a clause that required arbitration of “[a]ny controversy or claim arising out of or relating to this Agreement”). The Ninth Circuit “has made clear that, when an otherwise-valid arbitration agreement includes such broad language, ‘all doubts are to be resolved in favor of arbitrability.’”¹¹ Mohebbi v. Khazen, No. 13-CV-03044-BLF, 2014 WL 6845477, at *7 (N.D. Cal. Dec. 4, 2014) (quoting Simula, Inc. v. Autoliv, Inc., 175 F.3d 716, 721 (9th Cir. 1999)); Gray v. Conseco, Inc., No. SA CV 00-322 DOC (EEX), 2000 WL 1480273, at *5 (C.D. Cal. Sept. 29, 2000) (“When the language ‘arising out of and relating to’ appears in an arbitration provision, courts interpret the provision as a ‘broad’ arbitration clause.”).

[REDACTED]

[REDACTED]

[REDACTED]

[REDACTED]

[REDACTED] These provisions plainly cover Waymo’s trade secret claims, which are founded on Levandowski’s purported misconduct as an employee of Waymo, on activities Levandowski could only have carried out by virtue of his employment, [REDACTED]

[REDACTED] They also cover Waymo’s UCL claim, which is based on its trade secret claims, rather than its patent infringement claims. (Am. Compl. ¶¶ 143–48.) Both the trade secret claims and UCL claims are arbitrable. See Simula, 175 F.3d at 724–25

1 (“Courts routinely refer claims for misappropriation of trade secrets to arbitration.”); Ferguson v.
2 Corinthian Colls., Inc., 733 F.3d 928, 937–38 (9th Cir. 2013) (holding that arbitration clause was
3 “sufficiently broad to cover” UCL claims); Arellano v. T-Mobile USA, Inc., No. C 10-05663
4 WHA, 2011 WL 1842712, at *2 (N.D. Cal. May 16, 2011) (Alsup, J.) (granting motion to compel 5 arbitration of UCL claims and stay claims for injunctive relief).

6 C. The Broad Arbitration Clause’s Plain Language Envisioned the Possibility of 7 Arbitrating Claims against Non-Signatories.

8 [REDACTED]
9 [REDACTED]
10 [REDACTED] See, e.g., F.D. Imp. & Exp. Corp. v.
11 M/V Reefer Sun, 248 F. Supp. 2d 240, 247 (S.D.N.Y. 2002) (noting the distinction between 12 arbitration clauses that specifically identify the parties to be bound and “a broader form of 13 arbitration clause which does not restrict the parties”). “If an arbitration clause is broad, it may 14 govern disputes of non-signatories and parties not listed in the contract.” Id.; see also Hall v.
15 Internet Capital Grp., Inc., 338 F. Supp. 2d 145, 151 (D. Me. 2004) (broadly worded arbitration 16 clauses can reach claims with non-signatories).

24 (2012 Empl. Agmt. § 14(a) (emphasis added), Ex. 1, p. 38.)

25 [REDACTED] See Bigler v. Harker Sch., 153
26 Cal. Rptr. 3d 78, 88–89 (Cal. Ct. App. 2013) (noting that court should consider the usual and 27 ordinary meaning of the contract language to determine the arbitration clause’s scope). [REDACTED]

4 [REDACTED]
5 [REDACTED]

6 [REDACTED] The claims here plainly do.

7 D. The Court Should Compel the Trade Secret and UCL Claims to 8 Arbitration and Stay Them; the Remaining Claims should Proceed.

9 Because the trade secret and UCL claims are arbitrable, they should be referred to 10 arbitration and stayed pending the outcome of the arbitration, including, without limitation, all
11 discovery related thereto. [REDACTED]

12 [REDACTED]
13 [REDACTED]

14 Where, as here, the dispute involves “multiple claims, some arbitrable and some not, the 15 former must be sent to arbitration even if this will lead to piecemeal litigation” or would result in 16 “the possibly inefficient maintenance of separate proceedings in different forums.” KPMG LLP
17 v. Cocchi, 565 U.S. 18, 19, 22 (2011) (per curiam) (quoting Dean Witter, 470 U.S. at 217–18).

18 Section 3 of the FAA provides that a court shall, on application of one of the parties, stay
19 trial pending arbitration in any suit where any issue is referable to arbitration and the court refers
20 the suit to arbitration. 9 U.S.C. § 3; Congdon v. Uber Techs., Inc., No. 16-CV-02499-YGR, 2016
21 WL 7157854, at *5 (N.D. Cal. Dec. 8, 2016). Whether to stay the entire action, including issues
22 not referred to arbitration, is a matter for the district court’s discretion. BrowserCam, Inc. v.
23 Gomez, Inc., No. C 08-02959 WHA, 2009 WL 210513, at *3 (N.D. Cal. Jan. 27, 2009) (Alsup, J.)
24 (quoting United States ex rel. Newton v. Neumann Caribbean Int’l, Ltd., 750 F.2d 1422, 1427
25 (9th Cir. 1985)); Martinez v. Check ‘N’ Go of Cal., Inc., No. 15-cv-1864 H (RBB), 2015 WL
26 12672702, at *6 (S.D. Cal. Oct. 5, 2015) (staying arbitrable claims but declining to stay the lone 27 non-arbitrable claim).

28 In deciding whether to stay non-arbitrable claims, court consider several factors, including

1 whether the arbitrable claims predominate over the non-arbitrable ones, and whether the 2 resolution of the non-arbitrable claims will depend on the arbitrator's rulings concerning the 3 arbitrable claims. United Commc'ns Hub, Inc. v. Qwest Commc'ns, Inc., 46 F. App'x 412, 415
4 (9th Cir. 2002) (unpublished) (citing Simitar Entm't, Inc. v. Silva Entm't, Inc., 44 F. Supp. 2d 5 986, 997 (D. Minn. 1999)); see also Tech. & Intellectual Prop. Strategies Grp. PC v. Insperity, 6 Inc., No. 12-CV-03163-LHK, 2012 WL 6001098, at *13 (N.D. Cal. Nov. 29, 2012) (non-
7 arbitrable claims should be stayed when resolution of the arbitrable claims might have a
8 conclusive effect on the non-arbitrable ones). They also evaluate "the economy and efficiency
9 that result from avoiding duplication of effort" and "how suited the dispute is to the arbitration
10 process[.]" Gray, 2000 WL 1480273, at *8 (stay warranted where "non-arbitrable claim is based 11 on exactly the same facts and issues as the arbitrable claims"); Trinchitella v. Am. Realty
12 Partners, LLC, No. 2:15-cv-02365, 2016 WL 4041319, at *13 (E.D. Cal. July 27, 2016)
13 (evaluating the "similarity of the issues of law and fact among" the arbitrable and non-arbitrable 14 claims and discussing "the possibility of inconsistent rulings"). Courts likewise "weigh the 15 competing interests that will be affected," including, for example, whether proceeding without a 16 stay will impose hardship or in equity, or would complicate "issues, proof, and questions of 17 law" Congdon, 2016 WL 7157854, at *5 (quoting Roderick v. Mazzetti & Assocs., Inc., 18 No. C04-2436 MHP, 2004 WL 2554453, at *3 (N.D. Cal. Nov. 9, 2004)).

19 Here, the Court must stay Waymo's trade secret and UCL claims under the FAA's
20 mandatory stay provisions, if it finds those claims to be arbitrable. 9 U.S.C. § 3. [REDACTED]

21 [REDACTED]
22 [REDACTED] See generally Torbit, 2013 WL 572613, at *5 (granting motion to compel 23 arbitration and staying the case, while denying the preliminary injunction as moot in light of the 24 stay).

25 At the same time, however, the Court should not stay Waymo's patent claims. An 26 arbitration panel's resolution of Waymo's trade secret and UCL claims will not affect the patent 27 claims, and the trade secret claims and UCL claims do not predominate over the patent claims.

28 Whatever an arbitration panel might decide regarding whether the Defendants misappropriated

1 Waymo’s trade secrets, that decision will have little or no bearing on the patent claims. For
2 example, resolution of the issue of whether Defendants misappropriated Waymo’s trade secrets
3 will not resolve the issue of whether Defendants’ LiDAR technology infringes Waymo’s patents.
4 Consequently, there is no economy or efficiency to be realized from freezing the patent claims
5 pending resolution of the arbitrable claims. Thus, although the Court must stay the trade secret
6 and UCL claims if it finds them to be arbitrable, resolution of the remaining claims should 7 proceed in this forum, on course.

8 V. CONCLUSION

9 [REDACTED]
10 [REDACTED]

11 Given the conduct Waymo alleges Levandowski engaged in while he was a Waymo employee, it
12 is clear that the arbitration provisions, by their terms, reach the trade secret and UCL claims
13 against Defendants. Waymo should be required to abide by the terms of the contracts it made.

14 Waymo especially should not be allowed to avoid arbitration where it has alleged 15 pervasive collusion between Levandowski and Defendants, and where its claims are connected
16 with, and founded on, Levandowski’s alleged misconduct while he was a Waymo employee—
17 conduct that his employment contracts governed. Waymo certainly shouldn’t be allowed to 18 selectively manipulate its claims and dart back-and-forth between forums, to end-run its 19 arbitration obligation. Defendants ask that this Court, under the terms of the far-reaching 20 arbitration provisions, and under principles of equitable estoppel, compel Waymo to arbitrate its 21 trade secret and UCL claims against Defendants and stay those claims pending the arbitration.
